

Agnieszka Chojnacka

The Cave / 2012

The work imitates a home construction usually built by children in order to create their own independent space. The primal human need for security meets a joy laced with aggression.